ARRIVAL OF THE FIRST NEW YORK REGI-MENT AT FORTRESS MONROE. Вацимове, Мау 30, 1861.

The steamer Adelaide, from Old Point Comfort, arrive1 here this morning, and reports all quiet there. The steamer State of Georgia landed the First regiment of New York at Fortress Monroe yesterday.

General Butler was reinforced yesterday by two thousand treops. Col. Fay, Aid de Camp to Sec. Butler, arrived by the boat and proceeded to Philadelphia

Most of the troops are encamped outside the walls of Fortress Monroe and at Newport News Point.

There were no hostile indications on the part of the Virginians in that direction.

SURVEY OF THE BATTERY AT SEWALL'S POINT.

WASHINGTON, May 30, 1861. Capt. Engle, of the navy, has just returned from a survey of the position of the rebeis at Sowall's Point. He reports that the Point is held by four thousand rebeil troops, and that a powerful battery is erected on the shore. The place is skillfully defended by works, and the task of capturing it would be great. Capt. Engle, towever, does not regard its cepture as at all necessary for the purposes of the government—for the present, at least—especially as vessels of war can pass the Point without incurring the peril of injury from the battery. Capt. Engle reports that the position can be turned by a rear movement, and that by cutting off their communications with the main land, the rebels can be starved out.

COLONEL DURYEE'S REGIMENT. THEIR OPERATIONS AT CAMP BUTLER—THEIR PRE-SENT POSITION, ETC.

CAMP BUILER (NEAR FORTRESS MONROE), Va., 1 May 28, 1861.

Colonel Duryee's regiment arrived here on Saturday last, and be estately went into camp. We are two miles from Forti Monroe, near Hampton Rouls. There are about eight thousand men in and around the fort, Colonel Duryee's regiment occupying the extreme outposts Hampton is about a mile from our camp, and was occupied until Sunday by the recessionists.

It was deemed necessary on Sunday to occupy the Chesapeake Seminary, and Captain James L. Waugh, of Company D, was entrusted with its execution. He started at ten o'clock in the evening, with his company, started at ten o'clock in the evening, with his company, and quietly surrounded it. He med with no opposition the Principal, the Rev. Dr. Raymond, only asking for a day or two in which to remove his family. The building is a fine large one, fronting on the Reads, near the mouth of James river, about three miles west of the fort. The land being level, the building can be seen at a great distance. Captain Waugh raised the Stars and Stripes above the dome yesterday at suarise, and it is now floating treely to the breeze, within half a mile of the ground still occupied by the rebels. After taking the seminary Captain Waugh placed his whole company on guard for rie night. About three o'clock is the morning about a dozen min were seen approaching. Upon being challenged they ran, when the company started in pursuit, keeping up a brisk fire, but they effected their escape. About four o'clock there was another alarm, but we could not clearly distinguish the number of men. The captain stationed men on the west of the seminary up to a stream near James river. Soon after day light they saw men with arms collecting on the other side. We fired upon them, when they disappeared.

Cap ain Waugh was accompanied by the Rev. Dr. Winstow, the chaplain of the regiment. The doctor was with ur ad in light, and was one of the foremost in each of the persuits. He carried one of Cold's rilled revolvers, which he assured me would kill at six hundred yards.

Your readers will remember the uniform of the regiment, the Zouave. One of the residents informed me that when we were landing a slave ran to his mater saying, "Rum, massa, there are ten ibousand red davills coming to kill us six!" We are gradually extending our outposts, and I think it doubtful if the rebels make much of a stard this side of Norfok. General Butler sent two regiments shout six miles up James river yeaterday. They effected a landing and hold the position. They want up an item mer, and were fired upon by the rebels from batteries erected on Sewall's Point, opposite our c and quietly surrounded it. He met with no opposition

Green Pen and Radisher-Stampede of the Slaver, do. The movement when was to have been made to day, alluded to in my last communication, upon the enemy's essessions, did not take place, owing to the inability of fully preparing the troops for the expedition. All yesterday and to day the "busy note of preparation" has been beard throughout the post. Quartermaster Carruth, of the Fourth Massachusetts regiment, has been run down with applications for every article of military goods processary for a proper outst, and every demand was fully satisfied. A complete gray uniform, of a neat style, ust received from Massachusetts, was distributed to the dicers and men of the Fourth regiment, and they appear in them to-morrow, on their way to the immediate seat of war. A large quintity of percussion csps and car-tridges have been issued by Captain Taylor, Commissary the deties of his thankless p sition is gratefully ac knowledged by all.

I am now in a position to announce with certainty the precise distination of the large force which leaves this post to morrow morning at an early hour. Before sunset to mirrow it is conficiently expected that 2 000 or more men will be safely encomped at Newport News, on the east side of the James river, at its mouth. The force will consist of the Fourth regiment of Massachusetts volunteers, under the command of the brave and gallant Colorel Abner R. Packard: the First regiment of Vermont volunteers, commanded by Col. Phelps, and the Seventh regiment of Now York (Steuben) Volunteers, Col John F. Bone is together with a company of regulars (artille ry), under the command of Lieutenant Greble, of the ed artiflery, one of the most accomplished officers in the service. He takes with him two twelve gound howtizers and two ex pound howitzers, with an ample supply of shot and shell

The capedition will leave the post at seven o'clock tomorrow morning.

The Museschusetts regiment will be transported in thgusboats Mentisello and Woodward; the Vermont troops in the strambest Cataline, and the Seventh New York volunteers in the steamer Empire City, from which they have not essembacked, and the artiflery will accompany the Massachusetts troops.

The Barriet Lane and the gunboat Quaker City will convoy the transports and cover the lasting of the troops. The troops will land on a whart at the troops. The troops will land on a whart at the tittle villags, which consists of a dozen of house only, there being fully treaty five feet of water, sufficient to about the treatherts to come directly to the wharf. On his ling, the troops will proceed to take a strong position and a reloubt will manifestately be thrown to to present the troops, under the supermember one or topical Bedwart, of the Topicaphical Eigenseen, who accompanies the force. Remotestments will personally thrown in, and in a short time the forces are advanced upon Reliam of. The precise strength of the enemy in that neigh for hood have so far not been able to marp, but I have no doubt that the movement has been under with a full kin wedge of the accompt, then position and everything connected with them. I shall accompany the exploition, and will give, at the cultest penalty in oment, the result if I can do means of gotting off my report.

I visi on the camp of the New York Zeuaves, the Second New York Volunteers and the Vermont regiment to day. The Vermont era are encompast in an old contribut, on the right of the read leading to Hampion, just beyond the picket bridge, about a mise from the for. In the right of the read leading to Hampion, just beyond the picket bridge, about a mise from the for. In the share nearly a hundred tense, of a new pattern, invented by Cokend Phelps, very similar to the Scoling tents, a ranged in regular order across the field, extending about the length of the line of the regiment when drawn up. The location is very healthy, and commandous view of the fort and the bay. A large house, recently necesser, is spacefully should be very similar than the continuous a view of the fort and the bay. A large house, recently necesser as bearing should be very roung ladies, hear the bridge, is appropriated for a hospital the men so day were a good spirits, and new preparing for their departing to morrow intending. Renigious exercises were held to day by the chaptain after the evening parade of the regimen.

To the left of the road, not ten rols distant from Camp Pholps, as pitched the damp of the second New York Vointteers, under command of Colonel Carr. Their tents, consisting of the ordinary army wail tends, are strong on streets running at right angles, pitched on a vices of ploughed ground, which is aireasty well froduce down and terribly dusty.

The camp of the Zeuaves is perhaps fifty rods to the left of this, on the property of Colonel Legav, a strong Union man. Colonel Davyes and staff occupy his house, and the officers' tents—at least a large proportion of them—are pitched in a small orchard east the house, and the officers' tents—at least a large proportion of them—are pitched in a small orchard east the house, and the officers' tents—at least a large proportion of the former, and they are the most perfect patterns yet devised for vorulation and comfort.

The two New York regiments appeared to be engaged agreeable. Every few moments small equade would appear in comp bearing under their arms or on their shoulders, in a turniph, fat porkurs, of tender age, brease of ducks, gene, or other fowle, sometimes minus their heads, at other times in the full eryon ment of that useful portion of their body physical and determined to make it known by loud and inforesant equeskings, orekits or grunts. Some would bring in as spoils from these furtire expeditions a fatted cair, perhaps a heifer, or a venerable cow; and not a few ergs would be secreted in the cap carried in hand, while the son pourted its terril rays full upon the head of the despoiler of some neighboring poultry yard. Milk and vegetables, such as green peas, radishes, ontons and potators, flowed in in a constant and steady surroun; and on two occasions valuable barses were found in some questionable position and driven into camp for eafety. I saw enough of these articles of food to supply the regiment for rever at days. The supply must soon cease, and I incline to the lefter that what has already been taken will cause the volunteers many a regret. Everything that is so taken will cause the volunteers many a regret. Everything that is so taken must be paid for out of the boys' pay, when a true representation of the facts is brought to the commanding efficier.

I will not allude, until I am in a better position to learn their truth, to the reports of outrages committed on the people hereahous by the soldiers. If what I have heard be true, a severe and signal punishment awaits some of them.

be true, a severe and signal punishment awaits some of them.

The flight of slaves from their masters and their arrival in camp still centique. More than a dezen men, women and children came in to-day, and some are set to work in camp as servants, and others are employed in the fort. What disposition will be made of these people is not known. We may be overrun with them, and be obliged to send them back, a result we do not desire. The health of these in camp is very good, notwithstanding the intense heat of the weather.

The Minnesota went to sea on Saturday last, bound for Charleston or the Geif. The Harriet Lane has just returned from a cruise, with all on board well.

The noise and confusion of packing and preparing for the movement to-morrow compsi me to close.

Hou. Messas Dunn, of Indiana, and Ashley, of Ohio, are here locking about, and will accompany the forces to-day.

out in a successful manner by the troops detailed for the purpose. The garrison was astir at an early hour yesterday morning, and at seven o'clock the Vermont was on its way towards its destination. A short time afterwards the steamer Empire City, with Ccl. Bendix's Seventh regiment New York Volunters, weighed anchor, and also turned its bow towards the mouth of the James river. At eight o'clock Colonel Packard's Fourth regiment Mossachusetts Volunteers, with Captain Clarke's Rules as skirmishers, embacked upon the propeller William Woodward, and followed the Empire City.

The gupboat Monticello had departed at an early hour for the James river, where she cruised to ascertain whether there was a battery in the neighborhood of the proposed point of landing, and to drive off any of the enemy's cruisers that might appear. The steamers Quaker City and Harriet Lane also proceeded up the river, as convoy, and to cover the landing of the troops.

like other white men, finally ventured out and came into the camp. They were immediately invited to act as servants of the efficers, and they very gladly set to work cooker pork, and attending to colleary matters generally. They were all fat, jolly darkies, with a sleek, contented to k—just the fellows to pick up chickeths, eggs, green peas attachers, and other "gruck" which might look well on the efficers' tables.

The ones white men seen were found at the streeness the where, kept by Meriam & toll, the proprietors of which were immediately required to give their parole that they would not leave. They did so, and then epocal their store to the trours who obtained eggs, coffeet, tea, &c. of a very good quality, and at a moderate price. Stellam at expited to escape on horse-ack when the Kenticelle's brast tabled, but hat a dozen murket bat's whitzing post his head brought him back, with the exclamation, "I am a Union man—Union man—Union mane—Found in his house—such as manera.

I accom panied the pilot ashore for the purpose of cutting stakes buoy out the channel. We landed at a pier, a little above which was a group of houses, and further up the eminence the Roman Catholic parish church St. Thomas, of which Father Barber, a Jesuit intest, is the pastor. About a dozen or more were loitering near the pier, looking at our boat as it appresched the shore. They had evidently attended mass at the church, and waited to see what we were like, and ascertain the purport of the unwoated visit of a vessel of war in their sec'uded creek. To our laquiry whether we would be permitted to cut a few stakes for the purpose sentioned we were civilly told that the property belonged to the Jesuits, the agent of which was absent; but we were recommended to apply to Father Barber. Accordingly we commenced a rather tolleome ascent of the hill, the day being oppressively hot. Passing through a meadew of young and thin growing grass, of not very promis ing appearance, along an exceedingly dusty road, we som arrived in front of a plain but substantial looking brick cturch, surmounted by the holy symbol of our faith, attached to the sacron office was the parsonage, built

TRUESDAY, May 30—6 P. M.

Money is unchanged. Very choice names on short paper are current at seven per cent. Names less generally popular are hard to move at any price. The news from England, telegraphed from Halifax, creates some anxiety among moneyed men. The fall in consols and cotton was not expected, and the tone of the debate in the House of Lords rather disappoints those who expected Great Britain would pursue a friendly course towards the government of the United States.

Foreign exchange is very dull. Bankers ask 106, and sell at 105½ a ½. They are buying produce bills at 104½ a 105. Francs are quoted at 5.32½ a 36¼. The prospect of an active market to morrow is not brisk.

The stock market was inactive to-day and the course of prices was irregular. A fresh supply of State stocks came on from the West this morning, on the strength of which Tennessees fell 1½, virginias ¾, and Missouris ¼, with large sales. It seems inevitable that, sooner or latter, the broken banks of Illinois must send us for sale here the State stocks which are pledged as security for their issues. The Sanar Hook Litter—Mr. Frederick Nelson, the Sandy Hook I liot who reneited to us that while coming up in steam ship New York, on Tuesday morning last, the sandy Hook Light was not lighted has been found fault with by many of the fructeds of the lighthouse keeper for so recording it. Mr. Nelson, feeting somewhat indignant at the remark, wishes sgain to report that u ton coming up that mermog there was no main tight to be seen on Sandy Hook. This is a very important light, as, in coming up the Swash Channel, that light with the East Bacoon to quite essential in turing the Upper Middle, as also the main light with the West Beacon tor turning the SW Spit. Had the night been very dark he would have been compelled to remain outside until morning, thereby causing great delay: Itu under the circumstances. The night being bright moon light, it was of to material importance.
